

Financial wellbeing sessions for employers

The rate card

Three things to buy, one price for each: a one-hour webinar, a seminar with confidential one-to-one clinics, or a seminar with clinics all day, on-site or online. Either seminar package can be run as clinics only. All rates plus VAT, with nothing added on top, confirmed in writing before anything is booked.

What every fee covers

- A qualified Eolas Money financial planner delivering, not a presenter.
- Irish tax, pensions and the Irish mortgage market, in plain English.
- Scheduling, invites, reminders and the platform, and a timetable of clinic slots for you to fill.
- A moderated Q&A, and the recording for webinars.
- Independent and fee-based: nothing is sold to your people.

How a day fills

The seminar itself takes about an hour, with a Q&A after it. The first seminar package adds four or five private 30-minute clinics; as clinics only, it is 7 slots. The second runs clinics all day; as clinics only, it is 12 slots. The fee is the same whatever the audience size and however many clinic slots are taken up. You book staff into the slots and send us the list. What is discussed in a clinic is never reported back to the employer.

Booking

We can invoice against a purchase order; payment terms are 14 days from the invoice date. There is no fixed lead time, but the earlier a date is booked the better the chance of the one you want. For an on-site day we need a room and a projector, and a private room for clinics.
